

The present invention is used to monitor a user specified set of files for successful attempts to change the content. Templates are used to monitor user specified directories (with exclusion rules) for successful attempts to change the content or the addition/deletion of files.

5